We are pleased to share with you our ongoing project where we are inventorying and documenting tins in the sea along with 8+Fjords. With the help of submarines, we can cover larger areas and effectively find and map ghost tins for future work for recording these tins. Ghosts are abandoned or lost fishing tackle that continues to fish and damage marine life. Through our work, we help to preserve our marine ecosystems and reduce the negative effects of these tins along the coast of Bohuslän.

Indeed, in one weekend in May, over 30 lost lobster tins were retrieved from the sea floor, along with other fishing gear that harm our marine life. We used a boat as surface support, which can effectively collect the tins that the divers send up with to the surface using lift bags. STATUS: ACTIVE. Regular iterations
